Service Learning Fellowship:

KidUnity's Service Fellowship is a selective program designed to inspire and support Los Angeles-based K-12 educators who are passionate about service learning and civics. The fellowships will help teachers pursue professional development opportunities, and/or design and implement their own service or civics based programs.

The KidUnity Service Fellowship will provide direct financial support for educators' professional development and curriculum development - including both domestic and international summer travel experiences. Teachers applying for professional development/travel programs should have a clear sense of how such programs will inform the creation of new service learning curriculum.

One expectation of the Fellowship is that recipients will implement a service learning program/project at their school in partnership with KidUnity. These programs are eligible to receive additional financial support from KidUnity.

Who is Eligible?

The Service Fellowship is open to all educators in Los Angeles schools who currently or plan to teach grades K-12.
